A crossword puzzle grid consisting of white squares and black squares. The grid is shaped like a cross with several additional branches. The starting points for the words are numbered 1 through 7. 1 is at the top of a vertical column of 5 squares. 2 is at the left of a horizontal row of 5 squares. 3 is at the right of a horizontal row of 2 squares. 4 is at the right of a horizontal row of 3 squares. 5 is at the top of a vertical column of 3 squares. 6 is at the left of a horizontal row of 5 squares. 7 is at the left of a horizontal row of 5 squares.

What does it say?

Get the letters in the correct order to find out what the message says. The letters are shown correctly under the correct column. You need to figure out which row they belong in. It is trial and error, deducting and reasoning. Good Luck!
