How to Make a Bubble Bomb

What you will need:

- |   |                                   |
|---|-----------------------------------|
| ▪ a sheet of kitchen paper              | ▪ a measuring cup                 |
| ▪ 1 tablespoon of baking soda           | ▪ $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of warm water |
| ▪ a ziplock plastic sandwich bag | ▪ $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of vinegar    |

Steps:

1. First, go outside to do this experiment, as it makes an awful mess.

2. Then, place the baking soda in the centre of the sheet of kitchen paper. Wrap the kitchen paper around the baking soda and squeeze it into a ball.

3. Next, open the ziplock bag and carefully pour in the vinegar and the warm water.

4. After that, zip the bag halfway and quickly drop the ball of kitchen paper inside it. Then, zip the bag completely.

5. Finally, shake the bag a little, toss it on the ground and stand back. A reaction will happen; the bag will puff up and explode with a bang, making a bubble bomb!

A In your copy, go investigate.

1. What do you need to make a bubble bomb?
2. Where is the best place to do this experiment?
3. How much baking soda do you need?
4. How much kitchen paper do you need?
5. What two things must you place together in the ziplock bag?
6. Why must you stand back after you toss the bag on the ground?

B In your copy, give your opinion.

1. Why do you think you must shake the bag?
2. Why do you think you should zip the bag halfway before dropping the kitchen paper inside?
3. How do you think you might warm the water?
4. If it was raining, where might you do this experiment instead?
5. Why do you think it is called a 'bubble bomb'?
6. Can you think of another name for this experiment?

C Vocabulary: Write the correct word.

Alexander Graham Bell

Talk about the photographs.

Alexander Graham Bell

The First Telephone

Alexander Graham Bell was born in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1847. He became a teacher for the deaf and set up his own school. He was interested in how sound could be transmitted and wanted to develop a device that would allow the human voice to travel. He worked with an engineer called Thomas Watson. On 10 March 1876, Bell and Watson were working on the invention in different rooms. Bell spoke the words 'Mr Watson, come here. I want to see you' into the device. This was the first telephone call. The telephone was a very popular invention.

Answer the questions.

A Day in the Life of a Newsreader

My name is Mary. I am a newsreader on the radio. I studied journalism at college. Every day I have to get up very early to make sure that I have the most up-to-date information. I have to check the day's news stories, sports results and the weather forecast. The sound engineer checks with me to make sure that everything is working before I go live on the radio.

Write three things that Mary does in her job.

- 1 _____
- 2 _____
- 3 _____

Find out the name of a newsreader, sports commentator and weather forecaster. Draw a picture of each one or find a photo of them to paste into your book.
